

Special Lecture by Prof. Gi-Wook Shin (Stanford University)

* Title: "History Wars in Asia: Can the United States Play a Role?"

The lecture and discussion will be conducted in English without interpretation.

* Time and Date: Friday, March 27, 2015, 13:00-16:20 (the third and fourth periods)

* Location: The Research Center for Korean Studies of Kyushu University, the 1st floor conference room (Hakozaki Campus)

Prof. Gi-Wook Shin

The global authority on the study of Asian historical issues.

- 1991 Ph.D. Sociology, University of Washington, Seattle, WA.
- 1991 Assistant Professor, Department of Sociology, University of Iowa
- 1994 Assistant Professor, Department of Sociology, UCLA
- 2001 Associate Professor, Department of Sociology, Stanford University
- 2005 Director, The Walter H. Shorenstein Asia-Pacific Research Center
- 2007 Professor, Department of Sociology

【Related Publications】

Gi Wook Shin and Daniel C. Sneider eds., History Textbooks and the War in Asia: Divided Memories (Routledge, 2011).

"History Wars in Northeast Asia," Foreign Affairs (April 2014) (with Daniel Sneider).

【Areas of Interest】

Comparative-Historical Sociology, Political Sociology, Nationalism and Development, US-East Asian Relations, Korean Society and Politics, and Reconciliation and Cooperation in Northeast Asia

* To register, please email us

Center for Asia-Pacific Future Studies, Kyushu University

Email : cafs@jimu.kyushu-u.ac.jp

Phone : 092-642-2748 Fax : 092-642-7374